

Notional SEND Budget

What is a notional spend?

	All schools get some money to help children who need extra support with learning.
	This money is called the Notional SEND Budget.
	Schools use it to support children with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND).
	It can pay for things like teaching assistants, small group work, or special equipment.
	This budget helps schools give children the right support so they can learn well.
